

Le chien est tacheté de poils gris.

The diagram shows the sentence "Le chien est tacheté de poils gris." with "Le" and "chien" highlighted in blue and "est" highlighted in yellow. An arrow labeled "Il" points from "est" to "chien". Another arrow labeled "(m./s.)" points from "est" to "Le". A third arrow labeled "(m./plr.)" points from "est" to "poils".

Il porte un collier rouge avec une médaille dorée.

The diagram shows the sentence "Il porte un collier rouge avec une médaille dorée." with "Il" highlighted in blue and "porte" highlighted in yellow. An arrow points from "porte" to "Il". Another arrow labeled "(m./s.)" points from "porte" to "un". A third arrow labeled "(f./s.)" points from "porte" to "une".

Celui-ci est en position assise et sa tête est bien droite.

The diagram shows the sentence "Celui-ci est en position assise et sa tête est bien droite." with "Celui-ci" and "est" highlighted in blue, and "sa tête" and "est" highlighted in yellow. An arrow labeled "Il" points from the first "est" to "Celui-ci". Another arrow labeled "(f./s.)" points from the first "est" to "position". A third arrow labeled "(f./s.)" points from the second "est" to "sa". A fourth arrow labeled "Elle" points from the second "est" to "tête".